

487

N°279.

Blake tav. 14, 3.

Pag. 65.

Although the entrance of VIII, 2, 29 seems to have received its pavement before the block and brick side walls were erected, the presence of porphyry and serpentine, the coarseness of the tesserae and the use of horizontal rows bespeak a late date for it also.